Feb. 4, 1862.

Dear Garrison,

Do you print this week any speech of Wendell Phillips? If so, please send me proofs by Wednesday night's mail. I am going to the Albany Convention, and having no one to whom to confide the care of the Standard, must prepare outside copy before I leave, viz Thursday. I shall only print your speech, & all that you sent, this week.

I am invited, like yourself, to the house of Mrs. Jones in Albany, and I understand it is decreed that you and I, if we can only be kept from fighting, shall each have a bed in the same room. On the whole, I have concluded to be peaceable under this dispensation!

Yours, truly,

A. Johnson
